Prior to making an investment decision, the prospective investors should carefully consider the risks described below in addition to the other information set forth in this Prospectus. However, this section does not purport to disclose all risks and other significant aspects of investing in the Offered Securities. The investment considerations and risks enumerated hereunder are considered to be each of equal importance.

Investors deal in a range of investments, each of which may carry a different level of risk. The occurrence of any of the events discussed below and any additional risks and uncertainties not presently known to the Company or that are currently considered immaterial could have a material adverse effect on the Company's business, results of operations, financial condition and prospects and may cause the market price of the securities offered to fall significantly and investors may lose all or part of their investment.

RISK OF INVESTING

General Risk Warning

The price of securities can and does fluctuate, and the price of an individual security may experience upward or downward movements, and may even lose all of their value. There is an inherent risk that losses may be incurred rather than profits made as a result of buying and selling securities. Past performance is not a guide to future performance. There is an extra risk of losses when securities are bought from smaller companies. There may be a significant difference between the buying price and the selling price of these securities. An investor deals in a range of investments each of which may carry a different level of risk.

Prudence Required

This risk disclosure does not purport to disclose all of the risks and other significant aspects of investing in these securities. An Investor should undertake his or her own research and study on the trading of securities before commencing any trading activity. He or she may request information on the securities and issuer thereof from the Commission which are available to the public.

Professional Advice

An Investor should seek professional advice if he is uncertain of, or has not understood any aspect of the securities to invest in or the nature of the risks involved in the trading of the securities, especially those high risk securities

This growth oriented Fund aims to provide investors with long-term capital appreciation. The Fund holds medium-risk investments that consist mainly of government securities, commercial paper, corporate bonds, promissory notes and other debt instruments of varying tenors. As with any investment, a fund's past performance is no guarantee of its future success. Over the long-term, however, the success or failure to profit in the Fund will depend on the following: (i) the Fund's sales charges, fees and expenses; and (ii) the Fund's risks and volatility

Various risk factors can affect the market value of the assets of the Fund and can cause a fluctuation of the Fund's net asset value. The Fund, however, adopts steps to minimize, if not eliminate, the effect of these risks. The major risks facing the Fund are as follows:

1. Market Risk is the risk that the value of an Investor's mutual fund investment will be adversely affected by the fluctuations in the price level or volatility of one or more of the underlying instruments of the mutual fund. This consists of two main components:

- a. Systematic Risk – is the variability in price caused by factors that affect all securities across all markets (e.g. significant economic or political events). This may be seen in connection with the above-discussed Country Risks. To lessen the impact of systematic risk, the Fund from time to time will increase its allocation to cash or equivalents during extreme market volatility. The increase allocation to cash should mitigate somewhat the volatility of the securities in the portfolio and lower the systematic risk to the Fund.
- b. Unsystematic Risk – is the variability in price caused by factors which are specific to the particular issuer (PSE-listed companies) of the shares of stocks. Through proper portfolio diversification, this risk can be minimized as losses on one particular stock may be off-set by gains in another.

There are two types of market risk namely:

- a. Interest Rate Risk – This refers to the change in the bond price due to factors affecting the market such as interest rates. A change in interest rate is the period when rates rise or fall thus causing the decline or increase in the market price of the bonds held by the Fund, if any. This risk is minimized by closely monitoring the direction of interest rates and aligning it with the appropriate strategy of the Fund.
 - b. Equity Price Risk – This refers to the changes in prices of equity investments held by the Fund. This is affected by the volatility due to different market factors, changes in prices of equity refer to the equity investments held by the Fund either for strategic or trading purposes- These equity investments, if any, are subject to the daily price fluctuations, as determined by market forces. Hence, prices may vary as a result of the general economic and political conditions, as well as developments in the company's operations and overall profitability. To manage this risk, the equity investments included in the Fund's portfolio are carefully selected based on their fundamental soundness.
2. Credit Risk is the risk that one party to a financial instrument will fail to discharge an obligation and cause the other party to incur a financial loss.

Maximum exposure to credit risk

The Fund's maximum exposure to credit risk is limited to the carrying value of its financial assets as of reporting date. The Fund does not hold any collateral or other credit enhancements that will mitigate credit risk exposure.

Credit quality per class of financial assets

The Fund rates its financial assets based on internal credit rating system. The Fund only invests in high grade financial assets. High grade cash and cash equivalents are short-term placements and working cash fund placed, invested, or deposited in local banks belonging to the top twenty banks in terms of resources and profitability. High grade accounts are accounts considered to be of high value. The counterparties have a very remote likelihood of default and have consistently exhibited good paying habits.

3. Liquidity Risk or funding risk is the risk that an entity will encounter difficulty in raising funds to meet commitments associated with financial instruments. Liquidity risk may result from either the inability to sell financial assets quickly at their fair values; or counterparty failing on repayment of a contractual obligation; or inability to generate cash inflows as anticipated.

The Fund is exposed to daily cash redemptions of redeemable participating shares. The Fund is exposed to the risk of being unable to meet its payment obligations to redeeming shareholders. It therefore invests the majority of its assets in investments that are traded in an active market and can be readily disposed of.

To limit this risk, the Fund strictly complies with Investment Company Act Rule 35-1 (Rule) which requires all Investment Companies/Mutual Funds to invest at five 5% of its net assets in liquid assets. This Rule defines such assets as (a) Treasury notes or bills, Certificates of Indebtedness issued by the BangkoSentral ng Pilipinas which are short-term and other government securities; and (b) savings or time deposits with government or commercial banks in the name of the Fund.

4. Operational Risk (also called 'Operations risk') is the risk to earnings or capital arising from problems with service or product delivery. This risk is a function of internal controls, information systems, employee integrity and operating processes. Different institutions have different definitions of operations risk. Some institutions focus only on procedural risks, while others categorize all risks other than credit, market and liquidity under operations risk.

Operations risks refer to possible breakdowns in internal controls and corporate governance, error and fraud, technology failure, business disruptions and unpredictable external events. These circumstances can be very costly for a company. Thus, companies must proactively manage operations risk in order to minimize losses, remain competitive and protect shareholder value.

To mitigate the risk, the Company implements sound system of internal control which includes but not limited to segregation of functions among the different personnel, tight security administration and back-up plan, daily reconciliation of nostro accounts, confirmation or call back procedure, monitoring of exceptions and errors. Likewise, personnel are updated with current regulations affecting the funds.

5. Country Risk

The success of the Fund's investments may be influenced by the general political situation in, and the state of the economy of, the Philippines.

The general political and economic situations of the country also influence the net asset value of the Fund. As an illustration, when the country's general political and economic situations are perceived to be in turmoil, investors view this situation as the time to pull out their placements and move these funds to better quality, safer, lower risk investments such as the US dollar or at the least place these funds with bigger financial institutions/banks, until such situations normalize. As a consequence, these instances can result to the redemption prices of redeemed shares being less than the prices at which the shares were originally purchased. Investors who redeem their shares may not be able to recover the full cost of their investment. However, historical experience has shown that a portfolio consisting of debt instruments which are guaranteed by their respective issuers are relatively low risk as compared to a portfolio which includes of equity and quasi-equity securities. Ordinary investors are given the opportunity to avail of higher interest yield that require high minimum investments at low risk.

During the last decade and up to the present time, the Philippine economy has from time to time experienced periods of slow or negative growth, high inflation, and devaluations of the Peso. In addition, the Philippines has a large foreign debt. The foregoing risks are beyond the control of the Fund.

To somewhat lessen the impact of risk originating from economic and political factors in the Philippines, the Fund will continuously monitor and assess various economic indicators as well as political factors of the country to gauge if certain risk exists that might have a significant effect on the net asset value of the Fund. Economic factors such as GDP, growth in remittances from overseas workers, business process outsourcing revenues, inflation rate, lending and borrowing rates; and country's debt-to-GDP. Political factors the Fund might monitor are political decisions made by the administration, status of reforms being administered by the government and foreign investor's perception of doing business in the Philippines.

The following are additional risks present in the Fund which are not quantifiable:

1. Regulatory Risk

The Fund's investment and operations are subject to government regulation, which are subject to change from time to time. Regulations such as taxation and accounting rules may have a significant impact in the performance of the Fund which may either be positive or negative for the shareholders of the Fund. To address this risk the Fund will keep itself abreast with all regulatory changes that may have an impact on the Fund's operation and assets and seek to communicate and dialogue with departments concerned. In addition, the Fund will be an active member of the Philippine Investment Fund Association through which it may recommend changes in regulatory policies that affect the mutual fund industry.

2. Non – Guarantee

Investments made in Mutual Funds which the Fund is classified as, is not guaranteed by the Philippine Depository Insurance Corporation (PDIC). Therefore investors of the Fund are subject to higher risk of losing their capital without any form of guarantee. Moreover, like any similar risk type of investment, past performance of the Fund is not an indicator of the future performance of the Fund. In order to lessen the risk of loss of capital for the investors of the Fund certain risk-mitigating measures like diversification, investing only in high-quality and highly liquid companies listed in the Philippine Stock Exchange will be strictly observed by the Fund.

3. Dilution Risk

Being an open-ended mutual fund, shares are continuously subscribed and redeemed which may dilute its current shareholders as more shares are being subscribed. In addition the control and influence investors have over the management of Fund decreases as shares are continually subscribed. Given this inherent risk, the Fund Manager will impose an early redemption fee for investors who redeem from the Fund during the stipulated minimum holding period.

4. Fund Manager Risk

In general, the performance of a mutual fund is dependent on the expertise and experience of the Fund Manager. Although a fund's performance is affected by, but not limited to economic, market, political and regulatory factors, decisions made by the Fund Manager has a direct impact on the performance of the Fund. In order to mitigate this risk the Fund Manager will adhere to a thorough investment process, considering macroeconomic as well as company-specific factors before making an investment decision.

As used herein "business day" shall mean a day on which the Philippine Stock Exchange is open for trading in securities and each business day will be at the hour and minute when such Exchange closes for the trading of securities for the day.

All other assets of the Fund, including real estate, prepaid and accrued expenses and dividends receivable shall be valued by such standard and acceptable accounting methods as the Board of Directors and its auditor shall deem to reflect their fair market value.

INFORMATION WITH RESPECT TO THE REGISTRANT

DESCRIPTION OF BUSINESS

The Fund

Philequity Peso Bond Fund, Inc. is a domestic corporate duly authorized to operate as an open-ended investment company with an investment objective of investing in medium-risk investments that consist mainly of government securities, commercial paper, corporate bonds, promissory notes and other debt instruments of varying tenors. The Fund was incorporated on February 24, 1999 with an authorized capitalization of One Hundred Million Pesos (₱100,000,000.00) consisting of 100,000,000 common shares at a par value of ₱1.00 per share. This growth oriented Fund aims to provide investors with long-term capital appreciation.

The Fund has entered into a Management and Distribution Agreement with Philequity Management, Inc. authorizing PEMI to purchase and sell securities for the account of the Fund. The Fund does not have employees of its own since the management and administration functions are already being handled by PEMI. The Fund will not incur any income but instead PEMI will charge a management fee equivalent to one and a half percent (1.5%) for performing its function.

Competition

As of September 30, 2016 there are fifty five (57) mutual funds being offered to the public, twelve (12) of which are bond funds invested primarily in peso securities. The mutual fund industry has been increasing its net asset from ₱ 239.3 billion by the end of 2015 to ₱249.7 billion by end of September 2016. That's 4.35% increase in net assets in a matter of 9 months. We believe that the mutual fund industry will continue to grow given the growth prospects for the Philippines and the increasing demand for alternative investment options by the general public. Mutual funds mainly compete on performance followed by fees charged by the funds. If the performance of a fund is superior to its peers it will most certainly see increases in its subscription. Fees like sales load, management fee and exit fees are also factors that affect the decision making process of potential investors. As of September 30, 2016, the ALFM Peso Bond Fund, Philam Bond Fund and Sun Life Prosperity Bond Fund are considered to have the highest net assets and number of clients among the twelve mutual funds*. The Philequity Peso Bond Fund intends to compete principally on the reputation of Philequity for investment outperformance amongst its competitors. A lower fee structure will also give a competitive edge for choosing PPBF.

The Fund does not foresee to have any transactions with and dependence on related parties.

Patents, trademarks, copyrights, licenses, franchises, concessions, and royalty agreements held

The Fund does not hold any patents, trademarks, copyrights, licenses, franchises, concessions or royalty agreements. So the Fund's operation will not be affected by the foregoing.

Compliance with the Investment Company Act

As an investment company registered with the SEC, the Fund must comply with the requirements of the Corporation Code of the Philippines as well as the minimum subscribed and paid-up capital of ₱50.0 million as required under Section 12 Structure and Capitalization of Investment Companies of the ICA.

The Investment Company Act requires that any securities proposed to be issued and distributed or sold by the investment company must likewise be registered with the SEC.

Effect of existing governmental regulations

Government regulations have both positive and negative effects on the interest of mutual fund investors. The positive effect is the sense of security that the investors feel that investment companies are regulated by the Securities and Exchange Commission. Ultimately, it gives our capital market a sense of integrity which boosts investors' confidence in the Philippine equity market.

The negative effect of government regulation can be seen with the lowering of the threshold amount of covered transactions under the Anti-Money Laundering Act of 2001 (Republic Act No. 9160) from ₱4,000,000.00 to ₱500,000.00, making the investing public wary of attempting to invest an amount that would place their investment in such a position that would entail a report to the AMLA Council. Moreover, investors would consider the reportorial provision of the Anti-Money Laundering Act as an invasion of their secrecy of deposit, more so if the source of such investment is legitimate. Hence, with the AMLA as a discouraging factor, the Fund expects limited capital investment by shareholders.

PROPERTIES

Operations will be conducted within the premises of the fund manager. All facilities are either owned or provided by the fund manager. The Fund has neither properties under its fixed assets accounts nor hires employees for its operation.

LEGAL PROCEEDINGS

The Fund is not involved in any litigation or disputes. As of date, the Fund does not foresee any legal dispute to be instituted either by any government agency or entity or by third persons.

The Fund is not involved in, nor is any of its properties subject to, any material legal proceedings that could potentially affect their operations and financial capabilities.
